(((The Worse Generation)))
(((General Shorts)))
Why is the Greatest Generation also known as the GI Generation?

This generation produced the Silent Generation, which then produced the Baby Boomers.

They are the main generation that started almost all the main generational problems in the world today because they started the post-war consensus that created both the good and the bad of the modern-day world, such as one-night stand dating.

This sexual marketplace promotes sexual deviancy and short-term relationships that cause depression in the average woman who gets used as a sex object, and depression in most men on average who do not have a chance of getting a girlfriend, because the women they want as partners overestimate their character traits such as their intelligence, athletic, and skilful ability to the point they think they are better than they are because the most political, economically and/or socially most influential man around the world or in there country, that wants to have sex with them, but they are not interested in having a long-term relationship with them because the woman is not as exceptional as they think they are or not as exceptional as the man they are having sexual adventures with them.

So, most women in modern society end up hating it.

Most average Woman think most men are exploitive and narcissistic to the point they no longer want any long-term relationship with any man, even a man that actually wants to have a long-term relationship with them.

And on the other hand, men give up on getting a girlfriend because they think that if they are not the most political, economically and/or socially most influential man in there country or in the world , Because of this, there is no point in trying, so they give up before they even try.

Another example that the so-called Great Generation started is the globalism world we live in today.

They make it so, no matter if you are above average in intelligence, athletic, and skilful ability, if you are not in the top one-third of people in the world in one or more ability, wisdom and/or personality or in political, economic, and/or social power, so you won't get any good opportunities to have an above-average life.

So, unless you are in the top one-third percentage of the population of the world, you have less of a chance of having a good life.

Because before you had a global interconnected world, your ancestors only had to be in the top half of intelligence, athletic, and skilful ability or in wisdom /personality or in one or more types of power in their town or city, not the whole entire world.

Another trend the so-called Great Generation started the New World Order collectivist world view that sees all humans as interchangeable individuals that have no major differences in abilities and characteristics other than the ones our environment created and/or gives us, ignoring any scientific knowledge that shows there are as many or more than half of your ability and characteristics are due to your genetic material you are made of, such as your chromosomes that make you unique.

Even though not all problems started with this generation that we have today, they did create the post-World War Two believe that plagues the modern-day world.

This is best described as the opposite to that of the Nazi German people, that wanted their country and the world to be.

Even though they were a nationalist socialist dictatorship country, it does not mean that all their ideas, concepts, and beliefs, had no objective truth contained within them.

Because if this was the case, the German people would not be able to exist beyond more than three generations if that was the case, there for, half or more than half of their ideas, concepts, and beliefs they have, must have some objective truth underlying them in the first place.

Because they have a good understanding of the world around them, to survival a Long period of time to breed and produced young for more than three generations.

Therefore, doing the opposite that the Germans have done in their own country is a bit foolish.

This would be the case for all people on the planet that have existed for more than three generations.

This is one of many reasons that the New World Order post-World War Two believes are some of many , biggest mistakes that were made in the current centuries.
